

AUTO OWNERS TO FORM MOTOR CLUB

Meeting to Organize the New Association Will Be Held Tonight at City Building.

WILL DISCUSS GOOD ROADS

Organization Will Be Affiliated With The Hoosier Motor Association— Favor Road Signs.

The Seymour Motor Club will be organized this evening, the first meeting having been called at 7:30 o'clock at the courtroom in the city building. Considerable interest is being taken in the organization of the new club and it is expected that a large number of automobile owners of Seymour and Jackson County will attend.

Ross McCoy, who is much interested in the club, sent out notices yesterday to many of the automobile owners, requesting their presence at the first meeting. A number of these have already replied and have stated that they will assist in whatever way they can in organizing the new association.

It will be an auxiliary of the Hoosier Motor Club and W. S. Gilbreath of Indianapolis, secretary of the association, will be here this evening to make an address and to assist in placing the organization on a permanent footing. The purpose of the club is to discuss motor conditions in general, but a special emphasis will be placed upon the great need of better roads in Southern Indiana counties. A number of similar organizations have been organized in neighboring towns and cities and all of these will work in harmony on the good roads movement. The proposed club will be entirely separate from any other organization in the city but the members will assist in the good roads proposition which has already been started by the Commercial Club.

Among of the things which will be discussed tonight will be the proposed improvement of road to Louisville through Scottsburg which is in a deplorable condition at the present time. This is one of the main roads between Indianapolis and the south. H. L. Ramsey, secretary of the Louisville Motor Club, will also be here and will give some suggestions as to how the improvement can be made to the best advantage and at the least expense.

Another question which will be considered is the marking of the main roads between principal cities. The Hoosier Motor Club has taken this question up, and with the assistance of the auxiliary associations in the north part of the state practically all of the roads have been marked in that portion of the state. Local automobile owners are greatly interested in this move as there has been a long felt want in this direction for some time.

It has not been decided just what plan will be adopted in marking the roads, although it is probable that the same system will be used as has been followed in northern Indiana counties. Under that plan every fifth telephone post along the main highway has been marked with a band of white paint, and at the cross roads signs have been placed showing in what direction the traveler should go.

A book showing the meaning of the signs has been published and with the aid of these any one can follow the principal highways without danger of running into side roads and losing the main course.

At the meeting tonight officers will be elected and regular meeting nights will be selected.

WILLIAM WALLACE MAY HAVE BEEN VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

Police at Peru Working on the Theory That He Was Murdered And Body Was Placed on Track.

A dispatch from Peru states that there may be some mystery regarding the death of William Wallace, formerly of this city, whose body was found along the C. & O. tracks early Wednesday morning, and that he may not have been killed by a train as was first believed. His head was completely severed from the body and there were a number of bruises and cuts upon his chest and shoulders.

The first supposition was that Wallace had jumped from the rear platform of a moving train and that the wheels had passed over his body. No one is reported to have witnessed the accident and the body was found on the right-of-way near that city. It is said that there is no evidence which would support the suicide theory and there is but slight possibility that he would have leaped from a fast moving passenger train.

The police at Peru are working on the theory that the man was robbed and murdered and that his body was placed on the tracks in front of the train. It is said that Wallace usually carried considerable money with him, preferring to keep the cash with him rather than place it in a bank.

Mrs. George Murray, a sister of the deceased, received a message this afternoon stating that the remains would be shipped to Seymour and would arrive here tomorrow morning. The funeral will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, from the residence of Mrs. Murray.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS DISCUSS PLANS FOR TRAINING CAMP

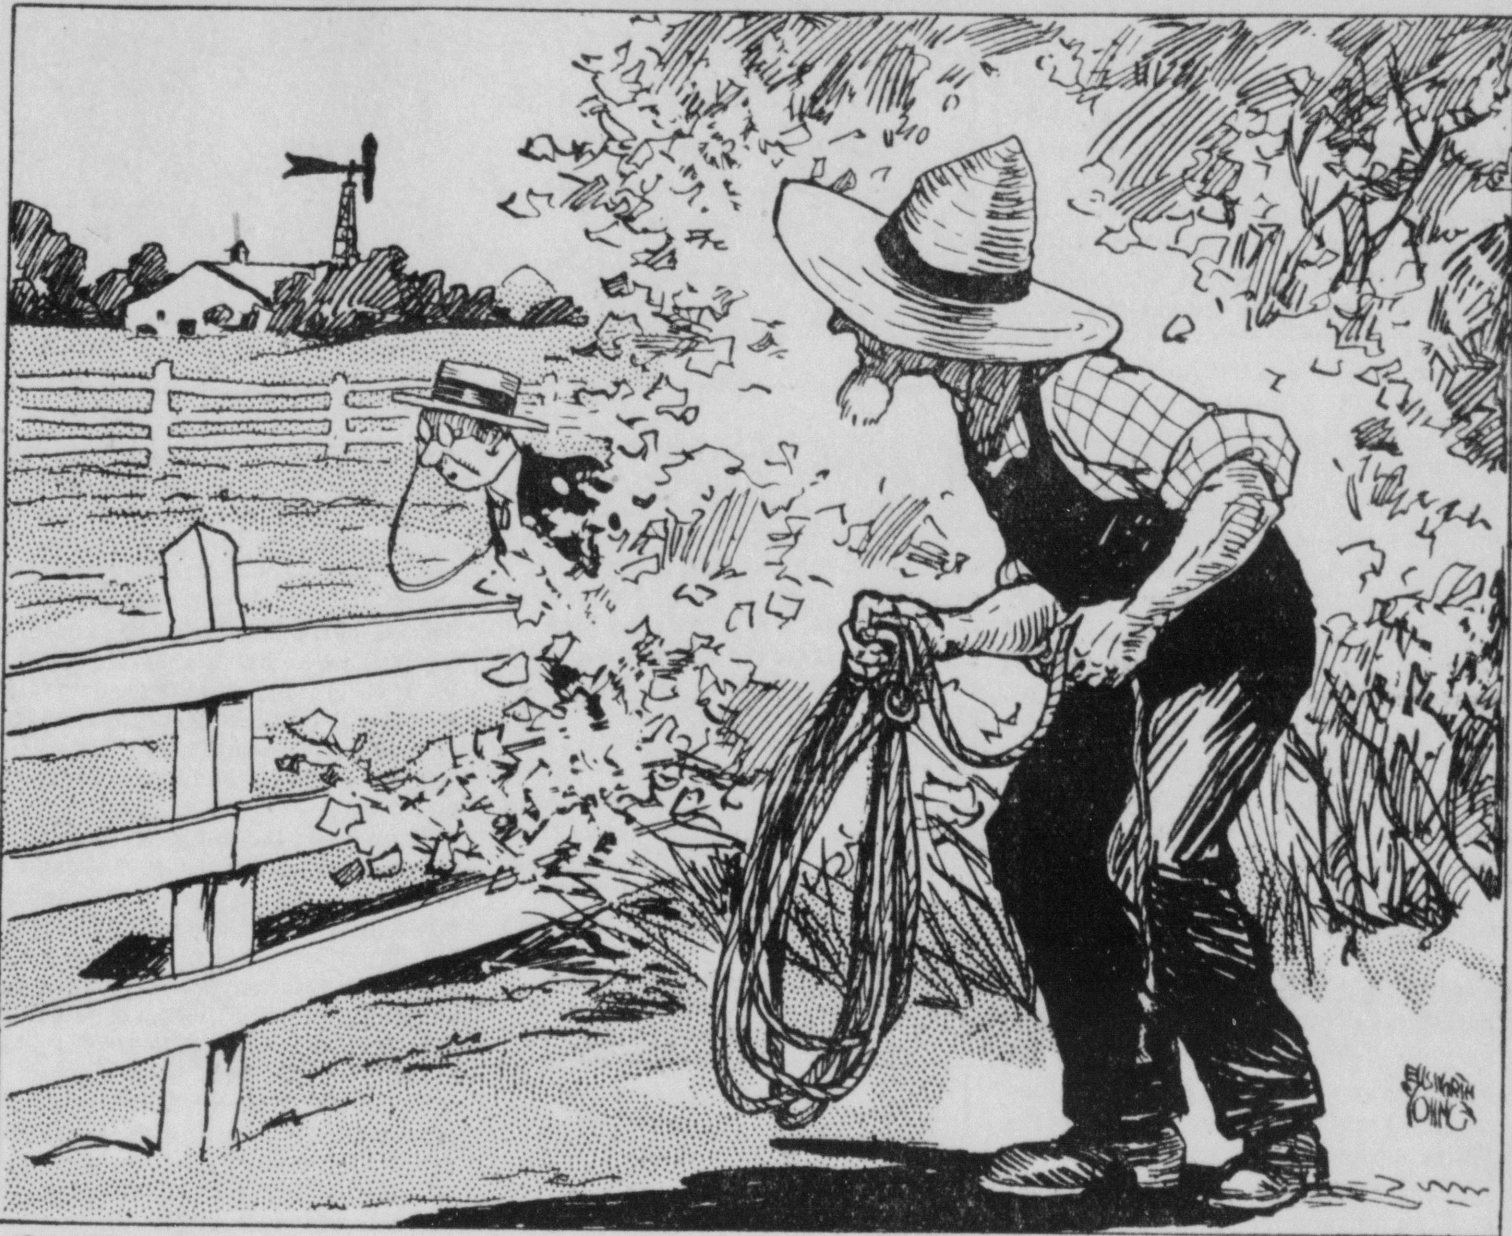

Held Meeting Wednesday Night and Completed Arrangements for Outing.

A number of the high school boys met at the city library last night to further discuss the plans for the training camp which will be established at Tanglewood the latter part of this month and the first of September. The purpose of the camp will be to give the boys an outing and also to prepare for the foot ball season.

A number of the aspirants for the high school team have agreed to attend the camp and practically all the arrangements have been made. The boys are desirous of securing all the tents and other camping equipment they can find. Several of the merchants have agreed to donate articles for the camp and a few merchants have contributed with cash. The boys say that while they haven't made any request for these donations they were greatly appreciated and of course will be glad to get any other contributions.

BROWNSTOWN OFFICER FAILS TO ALARM TRAMP BY SHOOTING

Hobo Surprised That Some One Was Directing Him "to Come Out of There."

The police at Brownstown take no chances with the knights of the road who trod the soil of that town during the small wee hours of the morning as shown by the following article from the Brownstown Banner:

About midnight Alf Jenkins, night policeman at the West End, noticed a man prowling around the rear yard of the Ewing Hotel. He called to the man to come out, but the man made no effort to obey the order. He called to him again, without receiving any response. He then fired his revolver and still the fellow paid no attention.

By this time Alf had become somewhat alarmed at the man's action, thinking perhaps he was preparing to return the fire, and he shot twice more in the direction of the powder. The last two shots must have come uncomfortably close, for the fellow came leisurely walking out to ascertain what was the matter and seemed surprised to learn that he was wanted.

He was brought to jail where he remained until next morning. He explained his peculiar actions by saying that he had walked in after dark and while lying around somewhere for the night he became thirsty. Being unacquainted with the lay of town he proceeded to the hotel yard where he thought he would find a pump, and it was then that the night policeman saw him. He said he heard some one call "come out of there," but did not know anyone was around and did not think it was intended for him. Even when the first shot was fired he did not think it was intended for him until the last two bullets whistled by uncomfortably close.

He seemed to be a harmless fellow and as he told a plausible story he was turned loose and ordered out of town next morning.

BODY WAS BURNED BY THE LIGHTNING

Death of Frank L. Newsom, the Young Electrician of Greensburg, Was Instantaneous.

BURIAL AT ELIZABETHTOWN

Body Was Suspended From the Telephone Pole, Where He Was Working, By His Safety Belt.

The remains of the late Frank L. Newsom, the young electrician, who was instantly killed Tuesday afternoon during an electrical storm, were shipped to Elizabethtown today and the funeral services will be held there. He was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William Newsom, of this city, who went to Greensburg Wednesday morning in response to the telegram informing them of his death.

The young man was working for the Decatur County Independent Telephone Company and with several other linemen were stringing some wires. He was on the top of a pole, and when the threatening clouds appeared his foreman ordered all the men to quit work and all with the exception of Newsom, the electrician sought shelter in a nearby barn from the rain. It appears that young Newsom told the foreman, Walter Schievel, that he had almost completed his work and would not come down from the pole until he had put on the one more insulator.

The other workmen were in the barn when Newsom was killed and did not know of the fatal accident until a boy told them that there was a man on the pole and would not speak to him. The electricians hastened to the place where the unfortunate man was working and found his lifeless body hanging to the pole, being supported by his safety belt. The men hesitated to climb the pole after the body but the foreman consented to do so and with a rope lowered the body to the ground. The shock had blackened his body and several persons who saw the body on the pole before it was lowered fainted.

According to all indications Newsom had been struck in the back with the bolt of lightning for a large hole had been burned into his backbone. Where the edge of his belt struck his waist his body was burned and at the place where the climbers touched the flesh was seared. Evidently he struck his neck on a wire when falling for a black streak encircled his neck.

Mr. Newsom was 18 years old and had been working for the telephone company about three months. Before this, however, he was employed a short time by the same firm and went to Indianapolis immediately after leaving Greensburg. He was a young man who formed friends easily and every one was interested in his welfare.

Mr. Newsom is survived by his parents, and grandparents, one brother, and three sisters. He had visited in Seymour several times and had a number of close friends here.

Three Hundred Girl Operators Thrown Out of Employment— Building Damaged.

Indianapolis, Ind., August 15 Three hundred girl telephone operators are out of work and the services of the Indianapolis Telephone Company is totally disabled for an indefinite period as the result of a fire which started in the terminal room of the company's plant in North Meridian street about 8 o'clock this morning. About one hundred girls were on duty when the smoke from the terminal room, which is on the first floor, reached the second and third floor of the building, but all were away in safety.

The fire put the local and long distance service of the company entirely out of commission. Harry W. Munsell, superintendent of the company, said he could not give an estimate of the damage done by the fire until the engineers had determined the injury to the cables in the terminal room. William Fortune, president of the company, said the fire was very disastrous.

R. D. Hughes, record clerk, was in the terminal room when the fire started. "There was a big, white flash," said he, "and then I didn't look to see any more." Smoke poured out of every window in the building and the odor of the burning insulation was noticeable.

The terminal room contains a network of wires. The workmen familiar with that room say the fire undoubtedly resulted from crossed wires. The ceiling of the terminal room is protected by corrugated iron sheets and the fire did not spread to other parts of the building. A little fire was found on the second floor where a cable from the terminal room entered.

The telephone girls, who had hurried from the building when they smelled smoke, stood in groups about the building. One little girl was weeping. She had left a quarter lying on her desk and this was the cause of her sorrow. Many of the girls carried their receivers with them when they left the building.

The officials of the company said they could not tell how long it would be before the patrons of the company would have service again.

After spending a week's outing at "Camp King Cole" on F. E. Miller farm near Cortland, Clarence Kastig, C. P. Pfaffenberger, Jr., William White and Chester C. Miller broke camp today and reported a fine time. Sunday a rowing party was given and on Tuesday a fish fry was enjoyed. They say that fishing was exceptionally good, one twenty-five pound cat fish being landed among a large number of smaller ones.

John Pfaffenberger, Sr. is reported to be not quite so well.

DISINHERITING A CHILD.

Some years ago the father of a minor disinherited his son because the latter changed his denominational allegiance, left one church and went into the ministry of another.

By the recent death of his mother the disinherited son received the share of the estate to which he was originally entitled.

He raises the query:

Does any father have the moral right to disinherit a child?

Who is responsible for the child's being in the world? Certainly the child came without its consent. It was not invited. It is not responsible.

Manifestly the parents are responsible. The child comes into the family by invitation and is entitled to all the rights and privileges of the family.

Now—
Whatever estate may be accumulated by the family belongs to all the family. Each child is justly entitled to its equitable share. Justice requires an equal distribution.

Nor does it matter what opinions the child may hold. It cannot thereby disinherit itself.

Our inheritance laws need to be reformed. They have their origin in the old English jurisprudence, which recognized the right of the father practically to disinherit all his children save the eldest.

Our laws should be changed to correspond with our enlightened moral sense.

A father may say:

"The property held in my name is all mine. I accumulated it," or "I inherited it." Shall I not do as I like with my own?"

Which seems good logic if you admit the premise. But—

The man is mistaken. In a true sense the property is not all his own. It is merely held in trust for the benefit of the family, of which he is the nominal head. He has no moral right to divert any legitimate share of that property from any member of the family.

Is that not true, ethically?

Frequently one hears of some father who has cut off his child with a shilling because the child happens to differ on some point of politics or of religion or business or who marries contrary to the wishes of the father or because of some inconsequential matter.

Which is not right.

It is wicked.

ATHLETICS AND HOLY MEN.

That inconsistent demand that clergymen shall not be as other men, which, when it appears, redounds to the disadvantage of the parishioners, has had a severe check from an active young vicar of Birmingham. Rev. Mr. Gillingham is known across England as the Essex county cricketer, and incidentally as the vicar of Holy Trinity. Certain of his parishioners who intimated that such conduct was unseemly in a holy man, now wish they had not, for the vicar made a spirited defense, and even the conservative wing of the press greets his remarks with hearty applause. The vicar declares that cricket is an asset to him; that when he goes to speak to men, it is not as the vicar of Holy Trinity, but as the Essex cricketer, says the Boston Transcript. Furthermore, it appears that this enterprising young athlete has collected £300 from cricketers and lovers of the game, without which it would have been impossible to carry on the work of the parish. "The charge is often brought against the clergy that they cannot do what other men do, and they are generally represented as palefaced weaklings. I know perfectly well that I was not ordained to play cricket; that my mission in life is 'to touch the hearts of men and bring them back to heaven again.' This I am trying to do, and if I found my cricket a hindrance rather than a help, I should give it up immediately."

Judge Babcock of Cleveland seems determined to afford the example of decisions which arouse favor for the recall either of judges or of decisions, or both, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. He commits himself to the deliberate judicial declaration that a cat is not a domestic animal, doing so in order to justify a dog whom the cat's owner shot for chasing it. A cat is not a domestic animal! Of course, there are cats and cats. There may be vagrant cats who have been driven off back porches with brooms and contumely until it has to become predatory as a means of living. Such a cat may not be domestic, though it would like to be. For as truly as the ruling passion of a dog is to have a master, the governing necessity of a cat is to have a home. If there is a more domestic sight in nature than a fat and comfortable cat indulging in a continuous performance of purr before a fire we have not been fortunate enough to see it. As to the irrepressible conflict between cats and dogs, let it be suppressed, if possible. But it is rank discrimination to give the dogs a legal status in pursuing the cat while denying pussy the inalienable right of self-defense.

"No hitting below the belt" is an axiom of the prize ring applicable to every contest in life. Fair fighting is the only kind that counts well. For a good cause alone justifies a fight, and no cause is advanced by unfair methods, says the Omaha Bee. Recognizing this, one need not imagine himself in the other's place to recognize the rights which belong to an adversary. Fighting for a principle should not engender personal bitterness. In a manly struggle hatred, contempt and revenge have no legitimate place. It is easy to believe that the prize-fighter, as he pounds away at his antagonist, may not be entertaining the most sympathetic feelings for him, and yet he loses the battle if he loses his head, his even temper and begins to drive away regardless. If his own blind passion does not defeat him, the referee under the rules will disqualify him. Fairness, reason, clear-headedness, the power to give and take, win the contests, whether of brain or brawn, that are worth winning. Unrestrained brutality, the grim spirit of revenge, lose them.

He finds that the University of Berlin leads, with 9,829; the University of Munich comes next with 6,797, and the Saxon University of Leipzig ranks third, with 5,170 students. The German universities have 57,398 students all told, of whom 4,417 come from other European countries, half of them from Russia, and but 338 from the United States. In point of attendance Columbia University is the largest in the world.

One of Philadelphia's most aristocratic citizens is to drive a cart in a parade as a reminiscence of the day when his ancestor held the garbage contract. Why not? It was useful work and it paid well.

Home Course In Road Making

I.—The Office of Public Roads.

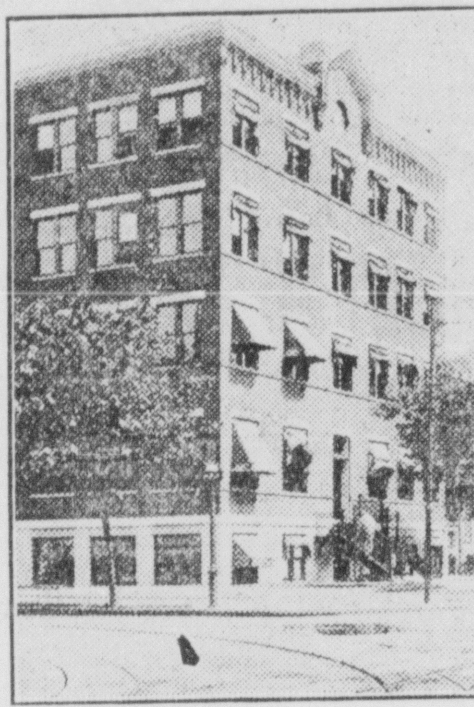

By LOGAN WALLER PAGE,
Director Office of Public Roads,
United States Department of Agriculture

Copyright by American Press Association, 1912.

IN March, 1893, a petition was presented to congress asking that a road department similar to the agricultural department be founded at Washington for the purpose of promoting construction and maintenance of roads and for teaching students so that they might become skilled road engineers and to establish a permanent exhibit of sections of road illustrating various methods of construction and the best road materials and machinery. This petition was signed by the governors of many of the states, including Governor McKinley of Ohio, by chambers of commerce and universities and was indorsed by resolutions of legislatures.

The office of road inquiry was established under authority of an act of congress approved March 3, 1893, making appropriation of $10,000 for the department of agriculture. The clause relating to this work provided that the secretary of agriculture should make inquiries in regard to systems of road management throughout the United States, make investigations in regard to the best methods of road making, prepare publications on this subject and assist agricultural colleges and experiment stations in disseminating information.

Since 1893 the total amount appropriated for the office of public roads is $864,800, and since its establishment the office has issued 40 bulletins, 95 circulars, 9 farmers' bulletins, 21 year book reprints and 18 annual reports, a total of 183 publications.

The office has directed the construction of about 346 object lessons and experimental roads, illustrating macadam, bituminous macadam, brick, gravel, sand-clay, shell and earth construction. The approximate expenditure on these object lessons and experimental roads by local authorities has been $800,762, and the subsequent road work due directly to the object lesson roads represents expenditures running well up into millions. Lectures and personal advice by engineers and experts have constituted a prominent feature of the work of the office since its establishment. The road material laboratory was installed in December, 1900, and from that time to July 1, 1911, about 5,390 samples of road material have been received from practically every state in the Union and tested to determine their character and value for road building.

A photographic laboratory was installed in January, 1900, and has now a complete outfit. This was the direct result of a great need for illustrated lectures. The office has now a collection of about 6,000 negatives and about 3,000 slides, many of which have been colored. These illustrate all phases of road work.

Experiments have been conducted with oils, tars, rock asphalt and various preparations for the purpose of preventing dust and preserving macadam roads from destruction under modern traffic conditions. The office has conducted investigations to determine the feasibility of the sand-clay method of road building in the southern states as well as in the prairie states, and this method of construction has been found to be quite practicable especially in the south.

A study of the construction of roads of natural soils by treatment with asphaltic oils has been made and was published in circular No. 90. The office is conducting investigations on the use of slag as a road material and the improvement of sand roads in parts of the country where clay is not accessible. Practical efforts have been made toward bringing about the more general use of the split log drag in the maintenance of earth roads.

One of the unique and striking exhibits at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition consisted of a series of miniature models illustrating every known type of improved road and the various road building devices, such as rollers and crushers, in actual operation. This exhibit was designed and prepared by the office, and since the exposition closed similar exhibits have been shown in many parts of the United States, partly through the medium of expositions and partly by means of exhibit trains operated by several railroads. Lecturers and demonstrators accompany these exhibits, making them in reality schools of instruction in road building.

Graduates in engineering are appointed from colleges each year after a competitive examination, and are given thorough training while rendering practical services to the government. In this way an efficient corps of engineers is being built up, which will aid the development of road building along proper lines, both during and after their connection with the government. This work was begun in the fiscal year 1905.

Investigations into the decomposition of rock powders under the action of water have led to important discoveries with reference to increasing the cementing value of road materials. The investigation into the corrosion of iron and steel culverts has brought out important results. The generally accepted theories regarding the rusting of iron have been demonstrated to be incorrect, and it has been shown that by treating the surface of the iron with a strong oxidizing agent the rusting can be inhibited.

In May, 1907, the office inaugurated a project designed to introduce the best possible systems of construction, maintenance and administration of roads in the various counties. Under this plan engineers are assigned to make thorough investigation on all phases of the road work of the county to which they are assigned, and prepare exhaustive reports giving plans, estimates and recommendations.

The number of the employees of the office has increased from one on July 1, 1893, to 157 on July 1, 1911. The present appropriation of the office is $160,720, out of which $3,500 is paid for rent, leaving $157,220 to pay the salaries of these 157 employees, as well as traveling expenses, the purchase of equipment and supplies, and the usual running expenses.

The most thorough and systematic methods of organization have been introduced into the administration of the office, and the great library on all phases of road work is the best in the western hemisphere, and the library is being added to constantly.

The policy of the office in recent years has been to co-operate with the officials in charge of road work in the various states as closely as possible, and the endeavor is being made so to correlate road work in each state by voluntary co-operation as to constitute one great movement along uniform lines and make the progress and methods of each state known to every other state through the medium of the office. In furtherance of this object a comprehensive investigation was begun in

SECTION OF THE BITUMINOUS LABORATORY OFFICE OF PUBLIC ROADS.

1904 to ascertain the mileage of improved and unimproved roads, the character of improvement, the amounts expended, rates of levy and sources of revenue in every county in the United States. This work was finished in June, 1907, and the results were published in the form of a bulletin, which shows that there are over 2,150,000 miles of road in the United States, of which only 7.14 per cent were improved in 1904, and that the expenditure in money and labor for that year was nearly $80,000,000. This bulletin comprises the first complete data ever assembled on this subject.

IDENTITY MUST BE KEPT QUIET

New York Graft Triumvirate
Passes Out the Word.

"DEATH TO ALL INFORMERS"

That is the Grim Ultimatum Handed Down to Bridgie Webber and Harry Vallon by Mysterious Big Three Who, According to Detective Burns, Have Been at the Head of Horrid System For Levying Toll on Vice.

New York, Aug. 15.—Bridgie Webber and Harry Vallon have been persuaded by representatives of the three men named by Burns as the directors of police blackmail to conceal the identity of the men for whom Lieutenant Becker was working, according to word that has reached the district attorney.

James M. Sullivan, declining to act any longer as Vallon's counsel, hurried from the West Side court prison to tell Mr. Whitman that the threats and persuasions of the triumvirate—the lawyer-politician, the hotel man and the police department official—have silenced Rose's fellow informers. For the past week, said Mr. Sullivan, messengers from the big three and from dishonest inspectors have visited Rose, Webber and Vallon. The messengers brought word that the informers were at liberty to make any kind of accusations they pleased against Becker, but that if they mentioned any of the names that Becker had given to Rose and Webber, they might as well kill themselves, because they would certainly be killed after they got out of prison.

Jack Rose declined to be influenced by threats or promises of reward. He told Mr. Sullivan that he would stand fast and that he would do everything he could to aid the district attorney in bringing to justice the big three of the gambling graft as well as the police officials who profited with Becker in the distribution of blackmail from gambling and disorderly houses. But it was evident to the lawyer that Webber and Vallon had been "reached."

Still more information has been obtained from bank officials by the district attorney as to Lieutenant Becker's deposits. While Becker was putting money in the Corn Exchange bank, the Lincoln Trust company, the West Side Savings bank, and the Empire City Savings bank, he was depositing also in the Chelsea Exchange bank. But in addition to Becker's deposits in the five institutions here named, he had four bank accounts in this city and three outside of New York city. There are also two safe deposit boxes in his name, one in the Lincoln Trust company's branch and the other in a safe deposit company whose name has not been made public. So that there is information as to twelve bank accounts and two safe deposit boxes.

The district attorney hopes to have by the end of this week figures as to seven other bank accounts, and from what he has been told he believes that the total deposits made by Becker on a salary of $2,250 a year will run pretty close to $200,000. Becker's lawyer, John F. McIntyre, declined to discuss the evidence brought out as to Becker's savings, but gave out that the accounts could be explained.

The story brought to Mr. Whitman from the West Side court prison by Lawyer Sullivan hardly surprised him. Sensational as it appeared to be, Mr. Whitman did not doubt that the triumvirate of blackmail had been using every effort to close the mouths of Webber, Vallon and Rose. He had heard previously of the threat made by Webber by the representative of a police inspector who called on Webber at 2 o'clock one morning and threatened him with death if he mentioned the name of the inspector. Mr. Whitman will let Webber and Vallon decide for themselves what their fate shall be. His agreement with them is a conditional one, based entirely upon the value of their evidence, and if they decline to reveal facts in their possession they may yet be indicted for murder.

"The situation has got down to this," said Mr. Sullivan, after seeing the district attorney. "Whitman has made a case against Becker and none of Becker's blackmailing employers seem to care a hang about Becker's situation. In fact, they have sent word to Rose, Webber and Vallon to throw Becker to the wolves. But they are determined that their own names shall not be brought out. Rose will make good. But Webber and Vallon have been reached, and I am afraid they have made up their minds to weaken. I have told Vallon that he is not playing square and that I will no longer act as his counsel."

The relations between Rose, Webber, Vallon and Jack Sullivan, the four in the West Side court prison, have become so strained that Sullivan came to blows with Rose and Webber. Sullivan has refused to make any sort of statement implicating Becker and has called Rose, Webber and Vallon squealers ever since he joined them in the West Side court prison.

The grand jury is in session again today and will hand down this evening seven indictments for murder in the first degree—indictments against the four pistol men, Jack Sullivan, Shapiro and a superceding indictment in the case of Lieutenant Becker.

PRINCE KATSURA

Japanese Ex-Premier Dominant

RUSSIA AND JAPAN ARE JOINING HANDS

Losing No Time In Fencing Off
the Far East.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—Russia's attention for the moment is quite absorbed by far eastern affairs. Turkey no doubt also interests the czar's ministers, but before they can play an active part in southeastern Europe they must first feel quite secure in China and Manchuria. And at present events there are moving rapidly. Owing to the mikado's death Prince Katsura quit this country sooner than he at first intended, but not before he had attained the aim and object of his journey. True, he has signed no fresh treaty and made no new proposal. But he has taken with him to Tokyo the certainty that in all future emergencies the two ex-adversaries will act together in the far east. Outsiders desirous of exerting political influence there, or influence which can be said to have a political aspect, must apply to the two self-constituted guardians of the Pacific. No neutralization schemes such as Mr. Knox's Manchurian railway project will stand any chance. They are eliminated already. The far east is earmarked.

These hardly perceptible changes in the international situation are of momentous interest to the people of the United States, and during the last few weeks the American embassy here has been working at high pressure recording them. Long ciphered telegrams frequently are dispatched to Washington or received from that city in St. Petersburg.

And no wonder. For the policy at present decided upon by Russia and Japan leads straight to the partition of Manchuria and outer Mongolia, and to the overlordship of those empires in China proper. They are determined to lose no time in fencing off the far east, as it were, so that come what may, no upheaval there may upset their plans.

WILSON UNABLE TO PARTICIPATE

Head of Ticket Cannot Attend
Marshall Meeting.

PREVIOUS DATE INTERFERES

It Seems That the Jersey Executive Had Contracted an Engagement to Attend the Trenton Fair Next Tuesday and Thus Finds Himself Unable to Go to Indianapolis to Attend His Running Mate's Notification.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 15.—Governor Wilson, after refusing regretfully the pressing invitation to go to Indianapolis to participate in the notification ceremonies of his running mate, Governor Marshall, indicated that for the next month and a half at least he will confine his speeches and public appearances to New Jersey rallies and to non-partisan gatherings in other states. The engagements on the diary do not yet take up so much time, but there will be no trouble to fill out the dates.

Although invitations are coming in daily to fill in about every day and most of the nights, the Democratic nominee and his managers are agreed that it will not be well for him to undertake any formal campaign efforts until after the middle of September. In the meantime he will accept such invitations as will not interfere with his manifold tasks of being a governor and nominee at the same time. When the governor made up his mind not to go to Indianapolis, he refused about as many invitations for a man to attend upon a single occasion as it is possible to get. Virtually every prominent Democrat in the middle west from Governor Marshall down had been keeping the wires hot and the mails heavy for more than a week urging him to come. STEEL BILL VETOED

President Explains His Action on This Tariff Measure.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Undeterred by the action of the house, which passed the wool bill over his veto, President Taft sent a message to congress in which he vetoed the steel bill, passed by the house and senate and sent to him for his signature. The president based his veto of the steel bill—the metal schedule of the tariff law—on the ground that it was framed "without consulting the reports of the tariff board and provided only for revenue and not for the protection of American industries."

The house repassed the vetoed bill within two hours after it had been returned from the White House with the president's veto message. The vote was 173 to 83.

MEXICAN REBELS ARE HASTILY ASSEMBLING

A Considerable Force Now Gathered
On the Border.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 15.—In the last forty-eight hours eleven or twelve hundred rebels have gathered at Palomas, the Mexican settlement opposite Columbus, N. M., where early Monday morning United States and rebel troops, the latter smuggling ammunition, had an exchange of shots in which one man was wounded on each side. Shots have been exchanged nightly since that time, and Major Rice, Third United States cavalry, commanding the United States troops there, has asked for more soldiers, fearing a rebel attempt to cross the line and attack his men. General E. Z. Stever, commanding the department of Texas and in charge of the border patrol, sent but thirty cavalrymen, not believing that there is any danger.

IMPORTANT CHANGES

Panama Canal Bill Has Been Modified in Conference.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The senate and house conferees on the Panama canal bill have reached an agreement and this measure will be sent to the president.

Important changes are found in the bill as it emerges from conference, but it has lost nothing in its radical railroad features. If anything that section of the bill is more pronounced against railroad ownership of steamship lines than it was when the proposed legislation went to conference.

BARTENDER AND MONEY MISSING

Saloonist a Victim of Misplaced Confidence.

TOLD BARKEEPER TO LOCK UP

And That Was the Last That George W. Ford, Proprietor of Indianapolis Saloon, Saw of Charles Seaman or of the Neat Sum of $1,300 Which Was Being Carried Over For the Next Day.

Indianapolis, Aug. 15.—Charles Seaman, a bartender, and $1,300 disappeared together from the saloon of George W. Ford. When Ford appeared at Central police station detectives began to look for Seaman, armed with a warrant charging him with grand larceny.

Ford cashes wage checks for the railroad men in Brightwood, and for that purpose supplied himself with $1,000 in cash from the bank. He says there was about $200 or $300 in the cash register, and he instructed Seaman to place the cash with that in the safe and lock the safe carefully.

Ford went to the saloon late in the morning. He found no one had been there. The safe was open and the money was gone. Seaman's former home was in Martinsville, Ind.

INTERURBAN WRECK

Motorman Killed and a Dozen Passengers
Seriously Injured.

Greencastle, Ind., Aug. 15.—One man was killed, two seriously injured and ten others badly hurt last evening when a limited interurban on the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction line ran into an open switch four miles west of here.

The dead: Walter E. Fritsche, Indianapolis, motorman.

The injured: Robert Davis, Brazil, chest crushed, serious; F. May Cook, colored, Louisville, internal injuries, serious; Mark Kester, Indianapolis, back injured; W. E. Small, Brazil, both hands crushed; Mrs. Margaret King, Brazil, head cut, right arm broken; Guy Troutman, Indianapolis, express messenger, head badly cut; Charles Hoffman, Brazil, scalp cut, hip crushed; Laura Rugenstein, Indianapolis, face and head cut; Helton Osborne, West Terre Haute, right arm mashed; Pansy Osborne, aged five, same address, right hand mashed; Barney Stevenson, Indianapolis, both arms broken, head cut and internally injured; Mrs. Mary G. Sinclair, Cloverdale, both arms broken, internally injured.

The wrecked car went through the switch into a ditch, and stopped with its pilot and part of the vestibule buried in a mud bank. The car was running at an estimated speed of forty-five miles an hour as it approached the switch, according to the statements of passengers. The information furnished at the company's offices was that the wreck was probably due to men who were installing a block signal system having left a switch open. The car plunged into this switch and piled up at the end of the switch, also blocking the main track.

Fatal Interurban Collision.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 15.—One man was killed and three injured in a head-on collision between an interurban car and a work train on the Chicago, South Bend & Northern Indiana railway in this city. The victims were workmen who were riding on a flat-car at the head of the work train. O. Luck, aged forty-five, head carpenter for the railway, suffered the loss of both legs and soon died.

Neal of Noblesville withdrew his name when it was placed before the convention by Hamilton county.

Cruel Murder of Infant.

MORE ABOUT THOSE 1904 CONTRIBUTION

Odell's Testimony Conflicts
With Others.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Testimony before the senate campaign contributions committee, Benjamin B. Odell, who was chairman of the New York Republican committee in 1904, as that the Republican national committee in the campaign for Roosevelt raised $40,000 of the $240,000 raised by E. Harriman.

This testimony is at variance with statements by George R. Sheldon, who has told of this Harriman contribution as he recalled the facts from a conversation he had with the late Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the national committee, in 1904. Mr. Sheldon said none of the $240,000 raised by Harriman went to the national committee, but that it was all paid to the Republican state committee.

Former Governor Odell testified that $200,000 of the $240,000 was paid to him by Mr. Bliss. The Odell testimony seems to conflict also with statements made by George B. Cortelyou, who was chairman of the Republican national committee in 1904. Mr. Odell says that the national committee finished $500,000 to the New York Republican state committee, while B. Cortelyou has fixed the sum at a considerably smaller figure.

Mr. Odell verified the statement that were made by Mr. Harriman before his death that he had been summoned to the White House to talk with Mr. Roosevelt because the latter was anxious about conditions in New York state. Colonel Roosevelt has never acknowledged that this was the purpose of his conversation with Harriman, and has denied that he urged Harriman to come to the rescue in New York state.

New Party Assailed in House.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Representative Stanley of Kentucky, the steel trust investigator, made a savage attack upon Theodore Roosevelt and George W. Perkins in the house. He characterized the Bull Moose convention as a "Punch and Judy" performance, and dubbed the Roosevelt organization as "this new party of progressive capitalism."

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1912.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGNERS WILL GO ON THE STUMP SOON.

Speakers' Bureau Will Be Opened in a Short Time.—E. F. Branch May Be At Its Head.

Extensive preparations are being being made by the Republican state committee for a speaking campaign in Indiana, and within a short time there will be a large number of speakers in the field. The chairman of the speakers' bureau has not yet been appointed, but it is understood that Emmett F. Branch, of Martinsville, former Speaker of the Indiana house of representatives, may be the man to take charge of that bureau. This will be determined in the next few days.

There is a great demand for Republican campaign speakers all over the state. There is scarcely a county that has not asked the state headquarters for a speaker. Chautauquas throughout the state also have been pleading with the headquarters to send speakers to make addresses on political days, but up to this time the state committee has not seen fit to grant any of these requests. State Chairman Sims says that there is too much real political work to be done to allow speakers to spend their time at Chautauquas, although he would be glad if he could spare some of them for that purpose.

When the campaign gets in full swing there will be no lack of speakers to make the campaign in Indiana. A number of headlines, campaigning under the auspices of the Republican national committee, will be sent into Indiana; but in addition there will be a large number of Indiana men on the stump, many of them speakers of ability. Many of them already have volunteered their services, among them being Ed. Jackson, Newcastle; James Wade Emison, Vincennes; Thomas T. Moore, Greencastle; Fred I. King, Wabash; James Bingham, Indianapolis; James Hemenway, Boonville; Anderson Percifield, Nashville; Charles F. Remy, Indianapolis; Frank B. Posey, Evansville; James E. Watson, Rushville; John C. Chaney, Sullivan; Finley P. Mount, Crawfordsville; Henry M. Taylor, Noblesville; L. B. Ewbanks, Indianapolis; James A. May, Alexandria, and John F. LaFollette, Portland.

All of these men, it is said are now ready to jump into the fight, and the headquarters will begin making dates for them in a few days.

Desert Highways.

Chas. C. Deam, secretary of the state forestry board, is interested in the planting of trees along the country roads and has issued the following bulletin:

When one journeys over the principal roads throughout our state; he is surprised that there are so few trees planted along the highways. Generally the few trees found are volunteers which have miraculously escaped their many enemies.

The question naturally arises, why are our roadsides destitute of trees? The principal reason is because the owner can not protect them. The roadside tree is nobody's tree or rather everybody's tree. The trunk is patched with signs, sale bills, etc., and perforated with nails. The branches must furnish gads for driving stock. The traveler, wearied by his horse fighting flies, breaks off the smaller branches and fastens them to the harness in lieu of fly nets. The telephone man regards trees as an arch enemy and sometimes so badly multiplies them that they are offensive to the aesthetic sense, and we wish he had cut them close to the ground to end their miserable existence. The practice of using roadside trees as guy poles is very injurious to them. The small boy finds delight in climbing in them, especially if they are not bearing trees. Their grateful shade causes them to be used as hitching posts, and the tied animals usually lunch on them.

The objection that trees prevent the roads from drying up quickly is much more than balanced by their grateful shade. It is true it takes some space to grow a tree but the value of the crop shaded by the tree is far less than the value of the tree to the public, the value of the wood produced and the added appearance to the farm. The time has come when our best farmers appreciate the value of roadside trees and are eager for the time when they can plant trees with a reasonable assurance that they will not be destroyed. Laws are needed to protect roadside trees and every property owner should urge his representatives to pass laws protecting trees along the public highways.

SEYMOUR MAN ENJOYING VACATION IN MICHIGAN

Rev. F. M. Huckleberry Writes of the Industries Found at Cadillac.

Editor of The Republican:—The city of Cadillac is composed of about ten thousand inhabitants and is located about half way between Grand Rapids and Mackinac City on the G. R. & I. railroads and about forty-five miles from the eastern shore of Lake Michigan and is easy of access to Detroit on the east and Chicago on the southwest.

The principal industry here is lumber, there being four or five big mills which have a capacity for cutting seventy-five thousand feet per mill per day. Some far exceeding this amount. There are other industries here such as handle factory, smelting mill, rolling mill, structural iron and steel mill, city gas and water plants, and other smaller factories.

Twenty-five years ago I was here when the city was surrounded with thousands of acres of fine timber land mostly pine and maple, but during the lapse of years those noble forests have melted away and goodly farms have taken their places. Farming here does not compare with Indiana. The soil is not so good and the seasons are too short to develop the crops such as is grown in our state.

Sixteen years ago I was here for a rest of two months and also twelve years ago and on both of those occasions I noticed the lumber men were cutting inferior timber and now they are cutting the hard wood and all of it has to be hauled from a great distance.

The timber in sight for most of the mills will last about five years; but one wealthy firm has bought up thousands of acres of timber land in the northern part of the state and it is estimated that this firm has material to last them for twenty years.

As the timber has grown scarce two other industries have sprung up utilizing the pine stumps which are so plentiful. Chemical mills have been built in which the wood of these stumps are taken through a process by which a certain grade of alcohol is made of one process and rosin is made of another.

Look in almost any direction and one will see pine stumps lifted from the ground ready to be shipped to the mills, so that even old dry stumps are made to serve a need in our rapidly growing civilization. I have been thinking since coming here and witnessing the transformation of these old stumps into proposes of utility, if only the human stumps in society could be made to serve society as well. This thought has been further emphasized in our mind as we have been taken by our friends out through the country in their touring cars, we have noted the many trunks of trees still standing burned black to their very tops by the forest fires, but are of no value to the world, but really a hindrance to progress. So in every community there are the human trunks made conspicuous because they stand in the way of the growth of society.

This county is dry, there not being an open saloon in it. Years ago the county went dry under local option; then the politicians put their heads together and in conjunction with the brewers and distillers the county was put back in the wet column. These defeats did not dishearten the temperance people, so the last election resulted in an increased majority for the dries. In this city where formerly there were twenty-five saloons, there are none and as a result, the men who spent their money for intoxicating drinks, impoverished their families and brutalized themselves are now spending their money in legitimate ways and are a credit to themselves and to society. Pains All Over!

"You are welcome," says Mrs. Nora Guffey, of Broken Arrow, Okla., "to use my letter in any way you want to, if it will induce some suffering woman to try Cardui. I had pains all over, and suffered with an abscess. Three physicians failed to relieve me. Since taking Cardui, I am in better health than ever before, and that means much to me, because I suffered many years with womanly troubles, of different kinds. What other treatments I tried, helped me for a few days only."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Don't wait, until you are taken down sick, before taking care of yourself. The small aches and pains, and other symptoms of womanly weakness and disease, always mean worse to follow, unless given quick treatment.

You would always keep Cardui handy, if you knew what quick and permanent relief it gives, where weakness and disease of the womanly system makes life seem hard to bear. Cardui has helped over a million women. Try it.

THE DIFFERENCE

Did you ever see two men walking down the street, both dressed equally as well with the exception of the shoes worn by one? If not, bear this in mind, and see if the man with the well shaped shoes does not look fifty per cent. the better. And remember this applies to woman's dress as well. No matter how handsome the suit, or pretty the dress, you will not be well groomed if your shoes are not in good repair. Observe.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Fourteen Years. Restored
To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"After fourteen years of suffering everything from female complaints, I am at last restored to health. I employed the best doctors and even went to the hospital for treatment and was told there was no help for me. But while taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use until I was made well."

"Mrs. HENRY LEISEBERG, 743 Adams St., Kearneysville, W. Va.—'I feel it my duty to write and say what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female weakness and at times felt so miserable I could hardly endure being on my feet. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following your special directions, my trouble is gone. Words fail to express my thankfulness. I recommend your medicine to all my friends.'—Mrs. G. B. WHITTINGTON."

The above are only two of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which show clearly what great things Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for those who suffer from woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A public invitation is extended.

Two cases filed by Christy Cammet on accounts were heard by Squire E. W. Blish this morning. One was against Herman Goens and the other against Sarah Green. The first was decided in favor of the plaintiff as the defendant failed to appear and the second was settled before the trial. F. W. Wesner represented the plaintiff in both suits.

Several owners of threshing outfits in Jackson county have completed their contracts for wheat threshing and have placed their machines in the sheds. It is said that the returns from threshing were not large this year on account of the light crop, and several of the threshers report that they barely made their expenses during the season.

Chief of Police Abell received a letter from Harland Patterson, of Joplin, Mo., this morning stating he had lost his army coat and discharge while passing through Seymour on a train a few days ago, and desired that the articles and especially the discharge be returned to him. He said that they were wrapped in a bundle upon which was his name and he supposed they slipped from the car window.

C. H. Ahlbrand received a letter from R. P. Van Camp, of Indianapolis, a few days ago that he would come to Seymour with the regiment of U. S. soldiers provided the schedule included this city. Mr. Van Camp is much interested in the proposed "hike" and has written to the various cities suggesting that a formal invitation be extended to Col. Glenn who is in command of the soldiers.

Mrs. Charles Murphy gave a delightful afternoon party Wednesday for the Bi-Weekly Club members. One pleasant feature of the afternoon was the presence of several out of town guests and some guests outside of the regular club members. Mrs. Perry of Chicago, Mrs. Parker of Terre Haute, Mrs. Rose Edwards, of Louisville, Miss Shaller of Vincennes and Mrs. Albert Koeckle of Newport, Ky., were the out of town guests. The home guests were Mrs. Joe Rottman, Mrs. E. L. Jennings and Mrs. Andrew McGinty of this city.

NORTH CHESTNUT STREET IS OPENED FOR TRAVEL.

Concrete Improvement Has Been Completed and the Obstructions Were Removed To-day.

The obstructions closing North Chestnut between Third and Fourth streets, were removed this morning and the entire new street was opened for general traffic. This is the first of the contracts awarded this year to be completed and the concrete street makes quite an improvement over the old street which was very rough and muddy at certain seasons of the year. With the exception of a few repairs the street has been completed and will probably be accepted by the city council this evening.

The property owners are well pleased with the new improvement and DeGolyer & Co., the contractors, have received many compliments upon the excellent manner in which the work was done. They have used care and precaution in constructing the street and believe that it will stand the heavy travel for years to come. This is the largest contract for concrete streets to be completed in Seymour and the citizens have taken much interest in its construction. The concrete makes an attractive street, and it is generally believed that its durability will come up to the expectations of the property owners. Since this part of the street has been completed Chestnut street is paved from Bruce street to the C. T. H. & S-E. tracks.

The work on Ewing and South Walnut streets is progressing rapidly and part of the later contract will be completed soon, and the street will be ready for travel. While the improvements were in progress there were only a few streets open for travel and the drivers of delivery wagons and other travelers were anxiously awaiting the time the work would be completed and the streets opened again.

Charcoal in the Ice Box.

A piece of charcoal in the ice box will take away the disagreeable "ice box" smell. If your ice box stands on the porch, where ants are apt to get into it, place a small piece of bacon or ham on the lowest shelf. It will attract all the ants, and you can easily remove them every day by removing the piece of bacon.

BIG SHIPMENTS OF WATER MELONS WILL BEGIN SOON.

Quality Is Good, But Quantity Will Be Less Than Usual—Cantaloupe Shipments Heavy.

The annual shipments of the famous Jackson county water-melons will begin in a few days and many train loads of fine melons will be sent to all parts of the country. The melon growers are bringing in many melons for the local markets, but a sufficient number are not yet ripe to begin shipping by the car load. The melons which have been marketed here this week have been exceptionally fine. The growers report that the crop will not be as heavy this year as usual, but that the quality is very good in most places.

Vallonia is one of the largest shipping points in the county, and in a short time many cars will be sent there to be loaded. Some of the choicest melons are shipped abroad by the commission men of the East.

Cantaloupe shipments are at their height, and every train leaving Seymour is loaded with baskets of melons. Most of the shipments are made by express in order that the cantaloupes will be ready for market by the time they reach the cities. The local express companies are handling hundreds of baskets of cantaloupes each day, and many of the passenger trains are carrying extra baggage cars to accommodate the shippers.
